Title of April 2018 Talk: What it Means to be a Working Geologist in a Competitive Job Market

MEETING SCHEDULE: AIPG California Section and Sonoma State University (SSU) Student Chapter host the April 2018 meeting. UC Davis Student Chapter is also invited as are AIPG members from California and nearby states.

Date	Location	Speaker	Time
Wednesday April 4, 2018	SSU Geology Building (Darwin Hall)	Tom Magney	7:00 pm

Tom Magney, P.G.

Abstract:

Being a geologist is one of the most interesting professions available, but keeping employment in an ever changing industry is sometimes challenging. The talk will focus on career development and successfully navigating a career in a highly competitive field.

Tom Magney, P.G.

Tom Magney is an Engineering Geologist with the North Coast Regional Water Quality Control Board in Santa Rosa, (a branch of Cal-EPA), a graduate from the Geology Department at Sonoma State University, and a California Professional Geologist. Tom has had a varied career in the geosciences with an emphasis on environmental assessment and remediation. From Geysers to gas stations, find out what it means to be a working geologist in today's competitive job market.
